

Kalpen'sKonnection – May 2020

In my quest of learning and sharing what I have learnt over the years, I have decided to start writing this newsletter, blog whatever you name it. I am always a Konnected person; socially, professionally & technically so this is my efforts to Konnect with you all through my writing.

I have been meaning to start writing this for long, but this Covid-19 pandemic has given me much needed ingredient – time! This pandemic has given us a chance to prove that the complaint we all had . . . “I am too busy, don't have time etc. etc. . . .” was in fact true and since now we are not busy and have time, we can do that “one thing” we always wanted to do.

Lots of the people are working from home and even if they are going to their work, the load has generally reduced giving more time to think, plan, organize and more importantly learn& improve. This is your chance to prove that you can be as effective working from home as at the office. If you are working from home, don't spend this time like your cottage vacation and roam around in your shorts all day. Instead, get up in the morning, exercise, get ready as if you are going to the office and then start working normally. The extra time on hand due to reduced workload can be spent productively to learn & improve your skills, develop or pursuit your hobby (and no, drinking beer doesn't count as hobby☺).

If we don't learn anything and come out of this pandemic with something better – skills, health, knowledge, relationship then it proves that we lack the most required personal attribute, Self-discipline.

Anyway, this was the first of this blog hence I wrote whatever came to my mind, from now on, I will be writing on what I have learned technically in the field of Instrumentation, Safety Systems, Communication & Networking, Valves and even non-technical as leadership, presentation & social skills etc.

Konnnect with me and let me know your feedback, Cheers & Stay well everyone!!
